Online drugstore fuels e-commerce for independents

TEXT:

A new, locally based online drugstore hit cyberspace this month - and instead of hogging all sales for itself, the site is...

...pharmacies, at least one analyst thinks the company has a healthy chance against the competition.

"Online drugstores, it's a crowded area right now," said Jim Ackerman, vice president in Friedman, Billings...
...is the issue of drug interactions. If a patient goes to one pharmacy for all prescriptions, that pharmacy records all the drugs that patient is taking and is able to warn about possible negative drug interactions. If a patient goes to one pharmacy for some medications and an online pharmacy for others, no one can coordinate that patient's big picture.

The biggest change in the past 25 years has been computerized pharmacy, he said.

"Computers revolutionized the prescription department," Bond said. "You couldn't operate without one..."

...said the computer is important for record keeping, billing third parties and keeping track of customers' medical histories for reactions between other prescriptions or allergies they may have.

In the late 1980s, generic drugs became more prevalent.
